To the Members of the Senate Committee on Judiciary:

Creditor's Rights Attorneys of Nevada (CRAN) is a trade group of attorneys who represent creditors in all courts in Nevada, from Main Street to Wall Street, from Justice Court to the Supreme Court. CRAN's members work takes place at all of the courts in Nevada.

CRAN and its members support SB201 without reservation. We believe the reasonable display of religious items encourages the exercise of religious freedoms and gives Nevadans living in common-interest communities the chance to share their sincere religious beliefs with their neighbors and visitors.

SB201 deftly balances the individual right to freely express deeply held religious views with a common-interest community's general goals of maintaining safe, clean, and orderly living spaces. Essentially, this bill ensures that individuals who chose to do so may create a small, reasonable, nondiscriminatory, nondangerous display of their religious beliefs without fear of reprisal or concern about the discretion of a particular common-interest community's policies.

CRAN supports the passage of SB201.

Respectfully,
